Teachers' blogs are giving pupils a new way to sharpen their skills

By ALISON ALOISIO

Elementary school kids just can't slip anything past their parents anymore. And the youngsters apparently love it. Consider all the information on the classroom blog of Crescent Park School second-grade teacher Gina Lavoie.

Parents can go online and quickly see information letters, a list of classroom procedures, important upcoming dates, a weekly newsletter and even online homework for their children to do.

"I always wanted to have a classroom web page," Lavoie said recently in a presentation to the SAD 44 School Board. "Blogging is a great option because it's free, and it's easy."

Lavoie said she is able to use the blog as a website, and set up different pages.

Of her 16 pupils, 14 have Internet access at home, she said. The others have access to computers elsewhere.

Lavoie provides links to online practice assignments at "self-correcting" websites for math, spelling and reading. Practices often include games as well.

"The children are focused and doing things directly related to the curriculum," she said.

While the pupils are not required to do the online work, Lavoie said, "all of them do it. They are so motivated by this."

Another advantage: the self-correcting programs provide immediate feedback, preventing what Lavoie calls "a teacher's nightmare": pupils doing a series of homework assignments incorrectly before the teacher sees them.

Last month Lavoie helped lead a school-wide workshop on blogging, for fellow teachers, and many are now doing their own.

Online art gallery

CPS art teacher Tera Ingraham told directors that she utilizes an existing website, Artsonia, to put her young artists' work on display. With the permission of and help from parents, she posts the art on a page created for Crescent Park. Viewers can add comments and become "fans," and the kids can post their own "artist statements."

Ingraham said the kids often let her know as soon as a new

AND YOU DON'T BREAK YOUR PENCIL LEAD—Madeline Hallett, a second-grader in Gina Lavoie's class at CPS, looks at her teacher's blog on a classroom computer. She went on to read the book "Riding with Rosa Parks" at the online site "RazKids," then answered questions about it. Pupils can earn points for their effort, which they can then use at an online "store" to buy furnishings and other items for virtual Raz Rockets that fly around a solar system. Madeline said she enjoys the online work and rewards. She also sees a practical advantage over paper work. "I like it because you don't break your pencil lead," she said. (Photo: A. Aloisio)

Bethel selectmen agree to work IF&W's concerns into town-forest harvesting plan

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Despite the protestations of selectmen Dennis Doyon that packs of coyotes, not lack of suitable wintering areas, are responsible for the area's declining deer population; and Jack Cross that "logging is the best thing for deer," the Bethel Board of Selectmen has agreed informally to have recommendations from the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife incorporated into the harvesting plan for the Town Forest.

The land in question, approximately 100 acres on the side of Mt. Will, has not been logged for several years, Town Manager Jim Doar said.

In an Oct. 28 letter to Doar,

IF&W BIOLOGIST CHUCK HALSEY

IF&W Biologist Chuck Halsey noted that he and Doar had walked the forest earlier in the month, "to discuss ways your planned timber harvest might be designed to meet, or not compromise, the habitat needs of wintering deer."

He also said that he himself was already familiar with the area in question, because it includes part of the Mt. Will Deer Wintering Area, and during the winter he makes weekly visits to the IF&W's winter weather station there.

He provided the following overview of the situation:

"Timber harvesting can be compatible, even beneficial to the long-term management of these habitats. Alternative, timber harvesting can degrade such habitats with the effects lasting decades. Compatible timber harvesting occurs when trees are grown for longer periods of time (rotations) and cutting is light and periodic. Timing, volume removal, and species selection needs to be designed so to

Gilead votes to negotiate for garage

By ALISON ALOISIO

Gilead voters said "yes" Saturday to negotiating a purchase price for Cole's Custom Auto garage on Route 2.

By a secret-ballot tally of 29-19, residents at the special Town Meeting authorized selectmen to negotiate with owner Ken Cole or his agent.

The 40-by-70-square-foot building has a current asking price of $159,900, and is listed by Maine Street Realty.

After a price is set, another meeting will be called to decide whether or not to actually buy the building.

If voters ultimately decide to buy, the building would serve as a town garage. Gilead's highway equipment is currently garaged at the Fire Station, or sits outside.

Selectman Fran Head, who is also the owner of Maine Street Realty, said she would not participate in negotiations, vote on a price, or even vote at Saturday's meeting.

She also said her daughter, Shannan Thielbar, is the broker with the listing on the property and would be the one to receive any commission.

Some residents wondered if the town would be in a better negotiating position if it retained its own realtor for representation.

Susie Dixon, a realtor herself, said Gilead would be better served by a professional. But, she said, she was not seeking that role.

"Properties that are distressed in this market, and this market the way it is, sometimes a list price could be one third less a couple of months from now," she said.

"I'm not looking for a job. I just think the town should have, just like you would have legal representation if you

HOW TO BUILD A GOOD SKIDDER ROAD—Funding through the Natural Resources Conservation Service enabled Ernest and Alberta Angevine to install culverts, water bars, soil-retaining fabrics and other erosion-control measures on 3,000 feet of logging trails on their 297 acres of land off the North Road in Bethel. On Saturday Ernest Angevine and Peter Marcinuk (both at far left) of NRCS guided a tour of the trails for members of SWOAM, the Small Woodlot Owners Association of Maine. The roads and trails follow several loops over hilly terrain. Many of the trees have been around for a long time. "Some of the oldest pines in Maine are on this lot," said Marcinuk. The erosion-control measures allow skidders and other logging equipment to navigate the woods without creating extensive ruts and muddy areas. In some places, particularly on the main access road, gravel was put down to provide a solid base. Water bars drain runoff across the trails, preventing downhill washouts. Streams are carried under the roads through culverts and, in wetland areas that "bleed out" water rather than form streams, fabric and small rocks are used in combination to allow the water to drain from under the road. The work was done by Amos Kimball. Through an application process, the NRCS can provide funding and technical support for property owners who, like Angevine, wish to improve erosion control on their lots. For more information call NRCS at 743-5789. More photos, Page 13.

RESPECT OUR RIGHT TO POST

To the Editor:

Eight years ago I was hunting on property that my husband and I own and young, so-called hunters, drove by, hung out the door of the truck and shot at a doe standing in the middle of the field. Little did they know that I was sitting on the other side of the field and saw them approaching and was in direct line behind the deer they shot at. Needless to say, a frightening experience!

My husband and I later found the deer and called the Maine Warden's Service. The young men were cited for multiple violations, and it was that fall that we decided to follow suit with our neighbors and post our property.

We did this to provide a safety buffer for our neighbors and anyone with written permission from us to hunt on our property. There is nothing scarier than to have someone shoot in the direction of you or, in our neighbor's case, your home.

We have never had a problem with people respecting our choice and right to post our property until these last couple years. People have been completely disregarding the signs and parking in the field, driving around the posted signs and shining up the field under the cover of darkness and now, they have gone one step further and in their own twisted sense of humor, have torn the signs from their posts.

We paid for this land, we pay taxes on it, we spent our valuable time and money to post the signs and we have always allowed sportsmen to hunt or fish when they've been courteous enough to ask our permission to access the land. We thank them for being respectful and responsible.

Now, I know that the people who find humor in violating us and our property will not read this, but I'm sure they will hear about it through the grapevine. I am here to ask you, the responsible citizen, to pass along the information to the irresponsible, so-called hunters to please respect our decision to provide a safe buffer for our neighbors and those sportsmen allowed on our property.

The day will come when you, the violator, will own property and expect others to respect your decision to manage it how you please. You may want to start treating others how you wish to be treated, otherwise, your earlier decisions may come back to haunt you.

What goes around does eventually come back around.

DEFREES SCHOLARSHIP THANKS

To the Editor:

The Rumford Performing Arts Committee extends a hearty thank you to the individuals, the businesses, and the organizations of the surrounding area who gave such huge support to the Jane Holt deFrees Scholarship Fund on Saturday night, Nov. 13. It was a wonderful evening of truly fine music, audience dancing, and an exciting Chinese Auction of -- gift certificates, a Mount Desert vacation home week, a one-carat pink tourmaline, and a large child's quilt.

Money donations were generous, both in the auditorium "donation jar" and because of early advertising -- those that arrived many weeks before the evening itself. Incredibly (and happily), they continue to arrive by mail. As I write, $1,500 has been received by the Maine Community Education Foundation for the scholarship; "early-bird" donations ($2,616) were sent in the first week of November. The total from many people and many places requires another thank you to Bethel, Hanover, Rumford Center, Rumford, Mexico, Peru, Carthage, Dixfield, South Paris, and Massachusetts, New York, North Carolina and Washington, DC.

A special hug to the Coos Canyon band for such an extraordinary night of music and comedy; the audience loved you. The selections of a decade of "hits," the harmonies, and the personalities were all stratospherically excellent. Top notch fun!

EMT BASICS/INTERMEDIATES PLAY CRUCIAL ROLES

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to the article in the Nov. 11 edition of The Citizen regarding Tri-Town Ambulance. After reading the comments by Greenwood Fire Chief Albert Curtis Sr. and assistant chief David Goodwin, I feel I need to clarify the roles of EMT basics and intermediates in rural EMS.

EMT basics are trained to provide basic life support. They are trained in patient assessment and spinal immobilization. They can maintain an airway, give oxygen, and monitor blood pressure, pulse and respirations. They are also trained in CPR and use of the AED.

EMT Intermediates can do all of the above and also use the cardiac monitor to monitor normal heart rhythms (and recognize abnormal ones). They can start an IV and give some medications with permission from a doctor at the destination hospital.

Both EMT basics and intermediates operate within their protocol and are trained to know when a paramedic is needed. If a patient requires a paramedic, the EMTs on scene will radio for an intercept. Contrary to what Chief Curtis said in the previous article, they do not wait on scene for the paramedic to arrive. The patient is assessed, loaded onto the ambulance, and started down the road. During this time, the EMTs on board are providing any necessary care and preparing for the paramedics arrival. Depending on the patient's condition and the level of EMTs on board, this could include CPR, oxygen administration, monitoring of vitals, cardiac monitor, medications, and starting an IV if needed. By the time the paramedic comes on the ambulance, the patient is ready or nearly ready for the additional treatments only a paramedic can provide. Even if a paramedic were on scene from the beginning, these basic treatments would still have to be done before advanced treatments are started.

Assistant Chief Goodwin is quoted as saying that the EMT Intermediate on scene at his mother's accident made several mistakes and did not provide good, quality patient care. He does not say what mistakes were made, but if protocols were not followed, this is a staff issue between the individual EMT and his chief and/or the board of licensure. It is not fair to judge all EMTs by an isolated incident such as this, especially when we do not have all the facts.

Every EMT has to pass a certification test to become licensed, and is required to keep up with continuing education to maintain and renew his/her license. EMTs of all levels are a vital part of emergency medical response, especially in a rural setting. Many patients are 30 miles or more from a hospital or a paramedic. EMT basics and intermediates can make the difference between life and death when time is of the essence, and the importance of their roles should not be diminished.

Jeanne Boelsma
EMT Intermediate, Gilead

(Note: Asst. Chief Goodwin went into considerable detail at the meeting regarding the mistakes he believed the responder had made, but there was not space in the article to report that level of procedural detail.

RAILROAD STREET PROPERTY IN GILEAD

To the Editor:

Upon attending the second meeting of the Board of Selectmen and the town of Gilead citizens concerning the town's proposed purchase of Cole's Custom Auto building on Railroad Street in Gilead, I came away with a feeling of unease and many unanswered questions that I believe the citizens of Gilead should know the answers to before committing to a purchase of this property.

1) How can the owner/designated broker of the real estate company for this transaction act in an unbiased arms-length manner for the benefit of the town of Gilead, when she is a selectman in the town? Is this not a conflict of interest, even though she stated at the meeting she was not personally taking a commission? Her company will?

2) Who is representing the town of Gilead to advise them of their rights to information about the property, such as: the soundness of the structural systems (roof, foundation, doors, windows, heating system, electrical, plumbing and septic, water quality etc.), liens and property boundaries? And, what are the yearly maintenance costs, including personnel, that were not mentioned in the proposal?

3) Are the citizens of Gilead aware that this property is under current pending foreclosure procedures, the details of which are viewable on the Oxford County Registry of Deeds' website and was verified by the Register? The course of events for foreclosures in the current economy indicates that the property would come up for auction, and if not purchased by bid, would be listed by the bank (mortgage holder) for sale. Prices for bank-held properties are consistently reduced until sold at subsequently lower prices. Wouldn't it be advisable to wait for these proceedings to take place? Experience in this market conceivably indicates foreclosure properties selling for tens of thousands of dollars less than initial listing prices.

4) Is this property more than the town of Gilead needs? Do we really need a paint room and equipment? Do we really need auto collision repair equipment? These would be extra assets to be paid for.

5) If the town has specific needs and wants to protect its vehicles from the weather and make them more easily accessible, which is a good idea and proven money saver regarding maintenance, why wasn't a committee formed to investigate all the possibilities rather than proceed so rapidly to buy a building where there are so many unanswered questions?

The above questions are only a few of the many that I have, but are of most concern to me, and because of these unanswered questions, I feel that the residents of Gilead should take every step to insure that the town uses every measure to investigate them before committing to a purchase.

SPEED LAWS IN SCHOOL ZONES

To the Editor:

The Oxford County Sheriff's Office began patrol coverage in the town of Bethel in late June of 2010. When schools opened in the month of September our deputies noticed that vehicle travel on the section of roadway within 300 feet on either side of the school entrances at Telstar High School was well in excess of the Maine State law regarding rates of speed (15 MPH) for a school zone. The average flow of traffic going by the school was between 40 and 50 MPH at the beginning and end of a school day.

We have worked very hard to improve and educate drivers in and around the school by being very visible in the area at the beginning and the end of the school day. We have seen a marked improvement in compliance with the school zone rates of speed. In fact this was done with a minimal number of traffic citations (2) being issued. Verbal and written warnings as well as visibility proved to be a great deterrent to excessive speed that had been taking place.

Maine Motor Vehicle Law Title 29-A Section 2074 (1) reads as follows:

1. Rates of speed. Except when conditions or other regulations require a lower speed, the following maximum rates of speed:

A. Fifteen miles per hour when traveling in a school zone:

- 1) During recess;
- 2) When children are going to or leaving school during school opening or closing hours. For purposes of this paragraph, school opening and closing hours are one-half hour before and one-half hour after the beginning of the school day and one-half hour before and one-half hour after the end of the school day;
- 3) When school speed limit signs are flashing during school opening or closing hours;
- or 4) At other times designated by a municipal traffic ordinance that regulates town ways that are classified as local by the Department of Transportation in accordance with the federal functional classification system.

The school is currently working on acquiring and installing school zone warning flashing lights on both sides of the school entrances.

A reminder, though, as defined above in 1) and 2) a 15 MPH rate of speed in a school zone does not require the presence of flashing lights.

Flashing lights are in place as a warning and informational tool to remind you that you are passing through a school zone. Whether there are flashing lights or not a school zone is a school zone if any one of the above four explanations apply.

We are very pleased with the voluntary compliance by the many motorists who travel that roadway on school days and thank you for this collaborative effort in providing safe passage on our roadways.

Oxford County Sheriff

ALL-YOU-CAN-EAT BUFFET

The Rotary Club of Bethel will hold its fall All-You-Can-Eat Buffet at Ordway Hall, Gould Academy, Church Street, Bethel on Sunday, Nov. 28 from 7:30 to 11 a.m.

Buy your adult ticket in advance and save a dollar. Tickets in advance go for $7. Tickets are available from club members or at the River View Resort or Mt. Mann Jewelers. Tickets at the door will be $8 for adults and $3 for children 12 or younger.

Proceeds benefit the club's community projects and scholarships. The club was a major contributor to the Davis Park Playground and the Skateboard Park. We actively support several Rotary programs for students, e.g., educational materials for SAD 44, literacy readings, Interact Club for youth ages 12 to 18, Rotary Youth Leadership Awards (RYLA) for sophomores, World Affair Seminar for all high school students and recognition of Telstar High School Students of the Month and Telstar's Top Ten Graduating Seniors.

Rail

ple turned out at the inn for an initial presentation by Maine Department of Transportation and Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments on the potential for bringing passenger rail service from Portland through Lewiston, Auburn, Bethel and possibly on to Montreal.

The session also gathered input from area residents about support for the proposal. Many spoke in favor.

The consultants doing the study planned to incorporate that and other information into alternatives for rail service.

The study was expected to look at such topics as ridership potential, costs, options for possible station stops and needed rail upgrades.

If extending the service is deemed feasible, the work would progress to environmental analyses, permitting, design, securing funding (likely from the federal government), equipment procurement and construction.

Monday's meeting begins at 3 p.m. in the Gibson Room. The meeting format will include a formal presentation, followed by an opportunity for public comment.

Agricultural producers survey

CONCORD, N.H.—Agricultural producers in New England will be asked to help with an important project this winter. The 2011 Agricultural Land Values Survey will be conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) during January and February of 2011. Land value data will be combined with information collected during the 2011 June Agricultural Survey, also conducted by NASS. Agricultural land values are one of the major indicators of the financial health of the agricultural sector. The value of land and buildings accounts for over 80 percent of all farm assets. Accurate land values are necessary for Federal and State deliberations on farm programs, for lending agencies, and for individual producers to determine their net worth. "Green space is an important issue in New England," explained Gary Keough, director of the NASS New England Field Office. "Programs that promote land preservation need accurate land values." As with all NASS surveys, information provided by respondents is confidential by law. NASS safeguards the confidentiality of all responses, ensuring that no individual producer or operation can be identified. NASS will publish the 2011 Land Values Summary with state and national estimates in August 2011. This and all NASS reports are available online at: www.nass.usda.gov. For more information on NASS surveys and reports, call the NASS New England Field Office at 800-642-9571.

In our back yard:

What goes with the flow

It has been raining a lot this fall, but do we ever stop and wonder where all of that rainwater goes after it falls from the sky?

Most people don't give it a second thought, but the rain has to go somewhere, and that means ending up in our lakes, rivers, streams, bays, and groundwater.

The average annual precipitation in Maine is 42 inches. According to the Maine Geological Survey (MGS), that is the equivalent of 24 trillion gallons of water falling from the sky onto the surface of Maine every year.

And do you know how much precipitation turns directly into runoff? The MGS estimates approximately 50 percent or 12 trillion gallons of water runs off into Maine's surface waters; some of the other half is taken up by plants, and the majority soaks into the ground to become groundwater.

As it washes over our yards, driveways, parking lots, and roads the surface water runoff picks up hitchhikers - pollutants such as fertilizer, weed and bug killers, pet waste, oils and gas, as well as eroding soil.

These hitchhikers travel with the runoff to the ditches, storm drains, streams and right into the waters we use for swimming, fishing, boating, even drinking.

We can't stop storm water runoff, but we can reduce the amount that picks up pollutants and then flows into Maine's surface waters. The rate that water soaks into the ground depends on many factors, slope, soil type, and type of surface (pavement, lawns, fields, and forests to name a few). Roads, buildings, and parking lots let very little water sink in - they are impervious to water, so most precipitation flows over them to become runoff.

There are technologies towns and businesses can use to decrease the amount of impervious surface such as types of pavement that allow water to soak through and "green spaces" that slow and cool runoff.

But what can we do to reduce runoff in our own yards? In a heavy rainstorm, our lawns shed 40-60 percent of the precipitation. Planting more trees, shrubs and groundcover helps slow down the rainwater and gives it time to soak into the ground.

We can also reduce the hitchhiking pollutants. One simple way is to regularly remove pet waste from our yards. We can also reduce the amount of fertilizers and pesticides we use.

Other ways of preventing storm water pollution are to direct runoff from our driveways into vegetated areas or plant a rain garden to absorb and filter the rain. Remember, water diverted by roadside storm drain systems usually bypasses water treatment facilities altogether and empties, untreated, into our lakes, rivers, streams, and oceans.

Do one or all of these preventative measures on your property and you will be helping your local waters to stay clean and clear. To learn more, visit www.thinkbluemaine.org.

CELEBRATE THANKSGIVING WITH US!

As the jumping off place from which to enjoy all the magic of the mountains of western Maine tucked away neatly in the heart of Sunday River there lies Merrill Hill a 460-acre sweep of wonderland located on the road to Jordan Grand Hotel and Sunday River Golf Club. This pristine New England Forest with underground utilities is nestled snugly in a sports lover's paradise between Alpine and Cross Country ski slopes, overlooking the Mahoosucs and running along a ribbon of The Sunday River.

After thoughtful planning the private community of Merrill Hill is poised to become one of the most exclusive enclaves in the area. The parklike gatehouse serves as a sentinel to welcome families to the light of home. Right now families are involved in selecting homesites and planning their new homes. A community like Merrill Hill is rare. We felt that too and that is why the streets are named for gemstones found in the area. But the best aspect is beyond the physical beauty and it goes to the lands clear capacity to refresh the spirit. Rethink your hectic schedule and drive up to see Merrill Hill where homesites are designed to compliment surroundings with uncompromised views through four dramatically different seasons. Get out of the car on Morganite and you will be refreshed. Decide to live here and receive the reward you have been seeking for your hard work. Only a select few families will have an opportunity to have a signature home on Merrill Hill. When you are ready give us a call. VOTERS OK NEGOTIATIONS
Gilead voters Saturday approved a proposal for selectmen to negotiate a purchase price for the Cole's Custom Auto garage building on Route 2. Another town meeting will be called after negotiations are complete to decide if the town should go ahead with the purchase. Here, Luella Cole casts her ballot as Town Clerk Lin Chapman lightens the mood by jokingly reminding residents how many votes each gets. The vote tally was 29-19. (Photo: A. Aloisia) were in a lawsuit, a professional in real estate who would be advising you."

Head replied that while another realtor could represent the town, "We are not splitting the commission."

Thielbar, she said, "has worked too hard and show too many other people the property to ask her to give up the commission because you want representation."

Selectman Jeremy Morin said he did not personally favor buying the building, "but if I'm asked to negotiate, that's what I'm going to do."

Some questioned Head's role in initially bringing the property to the board's attention. She said she had been asked to bring the listing information "by several citizens, and that's exactly what I did."

Darlene Corriveau wondered why the people who asked her did not present the idea themselves.

"I have no idea," replied Head.

One resident expressed concern that the circumstances were "not proper," and that a committee had not been formed to first study the need for a garage and the options available.

She also said she was hesitant about the town making purchases in the current economy.

"I don't think it's wise to go more into debt at this time," she said.

Gilead, with a population of a little more than 200, currently owes $168,482.

Thielbar, who also attended the meeting, said she has had "a lot of interest" in the garage, but no written offers so far. It has been on the market for about two months, she said.

The meeting was moderated by Alicia McLean and lasted about half an hour.

Forest

"maintain or increase conifer (softwood) stands of certain species."

"Spruce, fir, cedar, and hemlock that are over 35 feet tall and with canopy closure over 50 percent provides the type of shelter deer require to survive Maine winters."

"The conifer stands on the town's property are dominated by hemlock and this is a good news-bad news situation."

"The good news is that hemlock provides high-quality shelter and the species is long-lived."

"The bad news is that it is challenging to regenerate. It regenerates only by seed, whereas hardwood can regenerate by seed, stump sprouting, or root sprouting after harvest. If the timing isn't just right, hardwoods will get the jump on the new site and take over. Alternately, hemlock can regenerate if cutting is timed to a cone year, and when there is still a lot of shade from the residual (post-harvest) stand. This is why my recommendation calls for a light harvest."

"Deer population objectives are set by the public. Deer numbers in western, northern, and eastern Maine are not only below those objectives but declining. The number one reason for this is a steady decline in both the quality and quantity of winter shelter."

"The Maine Legislature has addressed this issue by tasking MDIFW to work directly with forest landowners large and small to work cooperatively to increase the amount of DWAs. If this effort does not succeed, the Legislature indicated that they would consider strengthening land use regulations associated with DWAs."

"DWA management can be beneficial to landowners such as town. Light, frequent harvests can increase the quality and growth potential of woodlands if they are designed to take out the worst and leave the best each entry. In short, growth potential should be continually placed on the better trees."

It does mean taking less now for the benefit of more later. This strategy also provides for a steady stream of income.

Selectman Don Bennett, who has worked in the woods for nearly four decades, said the biologist's view was sound.

"You do tend to know where [the deer] end up, and they're smart enough to know that if they get under some fairly heavy canopy spruces or first ... it's easier for them to move around. So they overnight there and work out into areas that have been cut and sprouted, and they browse out there."

As for the IF&W's overall proposal (more-technical details are contained in a letter from Halsey to Sherman Small, the town's consulting forester), Bennett said: "Personally, I don't think this is far-fetched, and quite frankly the wood might be worth a little more in a year."

The selectmen agreed to hold off on harvesting for this year, and Doar said the IF&W suggestions would be incorporated into the plan for the following year's cutting.

Make up snow days online

In Ohio a rural school district is experimenting this year with an unusual alternative to snow days. Instead of declaring the day an academic loss, students will be expected to take part in online learning activities.

SAD 44 Supt. Dave Murphy was asked after the board meeting if he could envision such an arrangement in SAD 44 sometime in the future.

"As we become more consistent and familiar with the various options that exist, the Ohio example might be an interesting one for Maine schools to think about at some point down the road," he said.

"Something like this would also need some vetting at the Department of Education level before it could be considered."

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Here we are again getting ready to give thanks for all the blessings that we have. Boy, the year since I wrote my last Thanksgiving column seemed to go by pretty darn fast.

With each passing year time does seem to go by a lot faster and I guess one of the things I can be thankful for is that I'm still here and still writing a column.

Though I have a few more aches and pains than I did a year ago I'm still in pretty good health and though my memory is something I speak of in the past tense I can still remember how to cook a turkey. As minor as these simple things are they are actually blessings for which I give thanks.

With a failing economy and high cost of living it's pretty easy to go down the dark road of depressing thought and wonder what we have to be thankful for. To quote one of the old cast members of Saturday Night Live, "there's always something."

For me, and I hope most of you, family is the biggest blessing. I know there is often a family member that pushes the limits of blessing, but they are still family and we should give thanks that they haven't yet pushed us over the edge.

As Henry and I near our 41st wedding anniversary

I am thankful that we have endured the ups and downs of married life and are still together. And Henry's just thankful that I've let him live this long.

I have far more reasons to give thanks than I do to grumble and complain.

My children have always been a blessing, except perhaps for some of the teenage years, and now their children are the greatest blessing of all. Like the saying goes, "grandchildren are so great I wish I'd had them first."

When my children were little I started a tradition of letting them pick their favorite dessert for Thanksgiving dinner and I have passed that tradition on to the grandkids. When they were little ice cream was their favorite dessert and I was always up to the task of buying the right flavors and earned praises as "the best grandmother ever!"

Now that the grandchildren are older their dessert choices are not quite as simple as going out and buying ice cream. This year one has chosen New York style cheesecake with strawberry glaze topping and one has selected tiramisu. The youngest one, bless his little heart, wants apple pie, which I would be making anyway.

In order to maintain my "best grandmother ever" status they will get what they want and I am most thankful that I have the time, knowledge or at least the cookbooks and resources to make it happen.

I am also very thankful that my family lives near by so no matter what the weather, we will all be able to gather at my house and enjoy a traditional Thanksgiving dinner, which this year will include cheesecake and tiramisu.

Throughout the year I have many days when I grumble and complain that life isn't fair, I don't have enough income to meet the expenses, I have too much to do, nothing ever seems to go right, yada, yada, yada.

Then Thanksgiving comes around and I start to count my blessings and am always amazed to realize how wealthy I am in things to be thankful for. I have far more reasons to give thanks than I do to grumble and complain.

With that in mind, the way I see it, I need to give thanks to you, my readers who provide me with ideas, inspiration and positive feedback. Thank you and I wish all of you a Thanksgiving of many blessings.

The Secret to a Flavorful Holiday

Roast Turkey with Mushroom Stuffing

FAMILY FEATURES

The secret to creating a crowd-pleasing holiday spread is combining a healthy helping of tradition with a pinch of creative new recipes that showcase beloved holiday flavors.

Basil, thyme and black pepper provide the perfect kiss of flavor to Roast Turkey with Mushroom Stuffing. Basting the bird with an infusion of these three, along with Swanson Chicken stock and lemon juice ensures that the meat will be moist and juicy, and the outside of the bird will roast to a beautiful golden brown.

Green Bean Casserole — the iconic recipe that combines Condensed Cream of Mushroom soup, green beans and french fried onion topping — was created 55 years ago by Dorcas Reilly of the Campbell Test Kitchen, and is still a favorite today. To change it up a bit, add shredded cheddar cheese, chopped red bell pepper, toasted sliced almonds or crumbled bacon.

For a side dish that's sure to become a new holiday tradition, try Toasted Corn & Sage Harvest Risotto. This blend of savory and sweet is a welcome departure from ordinary creamed corn or rice pilaf. Tender corn is toasted in a pan with bell pepper and onion, then combined with long-grain rice, broth and the perennial holiday herb, sage, for a rich and creamy treat.

And, since no holiday would be complete without the mashed potatoes, try Ultimate Mashed Potatoes, which live up to their name with unparalleled richness.

For more delicious recipe and menu ideas, preparation tips and helpful hints for the entire holiday season, visit www.CampbellsKitchen.com.

Roast Turkey with Mushroom Stuffing

Prep: 25 minutes
Cook: 3 hours 30 minutes
Stand: 10 minutes
Makes: 12 servings

- 3 1/2 cups Swanson Chicken Stock
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon dried basil leaves, crushed
- 1 teaspoon dried thyme leaves, crushed
- 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1 stalk celery, coarsely chopped (about 1/2 cup)
- 1 small onion, coarsely chopped (about 1/4 cup)
- 1/2 cup sliced mushrooms (about 1 1/2 ounces)
- 4 cups Pepperidge Farm Herb Seasoned Stuffing
- 1 turkey (12 to 14 pounds)
- Vegetable cooking spray

1. Stir 1 3/4 cups stock, lemon juice, basil, thyme and 1/8 teaspoon black pepper in a small bowl.
2. Heat the remaining stock, remaining black pepper, celery, onion and mushrooms in a 4-quart saucepan over medium-high heat to a boil. Reduce the heat to low. Cover and cook for 5 minutes or until the vegetables are tender. Remove the saucepan from the heat. Add the stuffing to the saucepan and mix lightly.

3. Remove the package of giblets and neck from the turkey cavity. Rinse the turkey with cold water and pat dry with a paper towel. Spoon the stuffing lightly into the neck and body cavities.* Fold any loose skin over the stuffing. Tie the ends of the drumsticks together.
4. Place the turkey, breast side up, on a rack in shallow roasting pan. Spray the turkey with the cooking spray. Brush with the stock mixture. Insert a meat thermometer into the thickest part of the meat, not touching the bone.
5. Roast at 325°F for 3 1/2 to 4 hours or until the thermometer reads 180°F, the drumstick moves easily and the stuffing reaches 165°F. Baste occasionally with the stock mixture. Begin checking for doneness after 3 hours of roasting time. Let the turkey stand for 10 minutes before slicing.

*Bake any remaining stuffing in a covered casserole with the turkey for 30 minutes or until the stuffing is hot.

HONORED FOR WWII SERVICE IN THE PACIFIC—John Bates, a World War II veteran from Woodstock, recently received the Maine Silver Star Honorable Service Medal and other recognitions from Lt. Col. (Retired) Peter Ogden (left), Director of Veterans' Services, and Jack Stearns of the Military Order of the Purple Heart. Bates was one of many Purple Heart recipients from across the state who were so honored for Veterans' Day. A corporal in the U.S. Army, Bates was wounded by shrapnel from a Japanese mortar in the Battle of Biak in 1944, during the New Guinea campaign, but recovered in a short time and resumed his duties. He served as a technician, setting up communications equipment between headquarters for his 41st Division and the division's companies. Bates also took part in the American landing at Hollandia, and served in the Philippines. In August of 1945, he was on a landing craft headed from the Philippines to Japan, as part of a planned landing and attack on the Japanese mainland. Then word came of the dropping of two atomic bombs on the cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and the ending of the war. But the celebration began around Bates and his shipmates before they knew what had happened. "It was around midnight, and all hell broke loose," he said. "Guns went off, and we thought they (the Japanese) were going to blow us out of here." Their mission quickly changed. "We became a division of occupation," he said. He was stationed near Hiroshima, and saw the bombed out city. He compares the breadth of the devastation to someone looking from Bryant Pond toward Bethel and seeing nothing in between. Bates was only in Japan for 10 days before being sent back to the U.S. and put on the road to discharge from the Army, at age 20. A native of New York, he and his wife, Pilar, have lived in Maine for more than 20 years.

Bethel

By Nancy Brown

Christmas wreaths were hung along Bethel's streets this week.

The Local Crafts and Wares Fair, sponsored by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, will be held Friday, Nov. 26, at the Bethel Inn Conference Center. The fair was mentioned in the "Happenings" section of the Nov. 7-13 issue of the magazine "American Profile," which is distributed with daily newspapers throughout the northeastern United States.

Other holiday activities in the region include the FEZtival of Trees at the Kora Shrine Temple in Lewiston, which runs through Saturday, Nov. 27. The Christmas tree spectacular includes 58 fully decorated Christmas trees donated by area merchants, organizations, and Shrine units. The trees will be raffled off at the end of the festival.

The 34th Annual Oxford Hills Chamber of Commerce Christmas Parade also takes place on Saturday, Nov. 27, in South Paris and Norway. The parade includes floats, bands, the Roller Derby Girls, Kora Fun Cars, and Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus. The theme this year is "A Storybook Christmas." The parade begins at 11 a.m. at Moore Park in South Paris and continues down Route 26 to the end of Main Street in Norway. Anyone planning to drive on Route 26 on Saturday should be aware of traffic detours along the parade route.

Dec. 4 Holiday Events

There are a wide variety of holiday activities in Bethel on Saturday, Dec. 4. The fourth annual Bethel Area Business and Home Expo takes place at the Telstar High School gymnasium from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. More than 35 western Maine businesses are participating. Taste of Bethel is at the Telstar Cafeteria from noon to 2 p.m.

The West Parish Congregational Church on Church Street will host a Christmas Fair and Tea from 1 to 4 p.m. At 4 p.m., participants in the Jingle Bell Run will meet at the Key Bank on Main Street to obtain bells for the walk up Main Street to the Bethel Common where the Rotary-sponsored Christmas tree will be lit at 4:30 p.m. Santa Claus will attend the tree lighting ceremony.

At 5:30 p.m., the Bethel United Methodist Church on Main Street is sponsoring a public supper and lighting of the Christmas tree on the church lawn.

Fifteen people from the Bethel United Methodist Church attended a performance of the Glorification Singers at the Rumford Center Methodist Church on Sunday, Nov. 14. The music group, which is from New York, performs internationally. They have been nominated as the Vocal Group of the Year by both the Christian Country Music Association and Power Source magazine.

On Sunday, Nov. 21, Avery Angevine hosted a Thanksgiving dinner for his family at the Sudbury Inn. Twenty-five family members attended the dinner, which included turkey and all the traditional fixings.

Muriel Butters is visiting her sons and their families in California.

Brethren are most welcome. Explorations art exhibit at Summit Hotel: Arla Patch's exhibition at the Summit Hotel for her students' work was certainly very well attended. Kathy and I think that Ms. Patch knows how to get her students inspired to turn out unusually good work. Work exhibited by Emily DeCarolis and Molly Keane caught our attention but there was a lot of finely accomplished art for parents and students to be proud of.

Annie Hastings was 90 years old on Monday, Nov. 22, 2010. Her husband, Henry H. Hastings, Jr., opened his law office in the same building as their home in 1946. Annie has been living in the same home for nearly 63 years, ever since she and Henry were married. Although her husband died in August 1968, Annie has steadfastly remained keeper of the flame at the corner of Main and Broad streets. Her domain is also gateway to the Broad Street Historic District. The law office was closed after her husband's death. Reported by Steve Seames.

West Bethel

By Lorrie Hoeh

A few snow flurries last week sent the message that winter is indeed on its way. Predictions are for a rainy Thanksgiving Day, but we'll all be too busy stuffing our faces and enjoying gatherings of friends and family to care about the weather. As for those who will be traveling, I expect they will be thankful it's not snow. For the sake of skiers, let's hope that the cooler mountain tops will get some white stuff while we get wet stuff.

For all you lovers of piano music, you'll be pleased that Tamara Poddubnaya and two of her wonderful students will be back in town next week. They will be performing on Thursday evening, Dec. 2, so mark your calendars. The recital will start at 7:30 p.m. at the McLaughlin Science Center auditorium at Gould Acad-

DBA: Cantina del Rio

Roger Beaudoin recently opened Cantina del Rio on the Sunday River Road in Bethel. He explains his inspiration: "Twenty years ago I lived in Southern California and frequented this hole-in-the-wall Mexican joint on the beach called 'Gringos.' There was always a line out the door, and you could smell the authentic Mexican food from blocks away. Pancho and Miguel were cooking the good food in the kitchen with Mariachi's playing on their tune box. The Sangria and Margaritas were flowing. I probably went there three times a week for years, and it was always the same and consistently good. Years later I stumbled upon a similar place in Edinburgh, Scotland of all places, with fresh chips and salsa, great Mexican food and a funky vibe. This idea stayed with me. So after all these years, we were inspired to fix this place up, give it some funk and create our own take on 'Gringos.' General Manager Todd Miller is ensuring delicious Mexican food, great service and South of the Border ambience, with the Tiki Bar, 18 drafts, homemade Sangria, lots of Tequila, specialty Margaritas, authentic Mexican food and a family-friendly tropical vibe." Nightly food and drink specials will be offered for locals. Cantina del Rio plans to remain open year-round. Pictured here at a recent ribbon cutting are Beaudoin, Miller (cutting the ribbon) Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce executive director Robin Zinchuk, the staff and several customers on hand for the opening.

at the Town Hall. There were 49 registered voters present and a few guests. Alicia McLean was elected moderator. The second article was to see if the town would authorize the selectmen to enter into negotiations with Kenneth Cole and his agent to purchase his land and a building known as Cole's Custom Auto. After some discussion, a written secret ballot was held and the result was 29 Yes votes, 19 No votes and one abstain. The article passed and the selectmen will begin negotiations. When they have reached an agreement, there will be another Special Town Meeting for the voters to decide whether or not they want to purchase the land and building for that price.

Notice of this Special Town Meeting will be posted at the Town Office, Town Hall, and the Transfer Station.

East Bethel

By Wally Ritz

The cold, brisk days lately surely are an obvious sign that the Holiday Season has begun.

Arlene Harrington went to visit her granddaughter, Karen Lauther, in East Orland from Nov. 10 till the 15th. They had a great time, which was enhanced by lovely weather.

Bettyann and Sonny Hastings had a pre-Thanksgiving get-together with his sister and her family at Maurice's on the 15th.

Last Friday my friend Carla Byrne and her husband Russell from Rhode Island came by for a nice visit. My son, Ryan, and I surprised her with a small, early birthday cake, as on Saturday she turned 60! Happy Birthday my friend.

Congratulations to John Coolidge. He shot an 8-point buck early Saturday morning. Any more lucky hunters in the neighborhood?

I came across an interesting quote from the journalist Ambrose Bierce, "Speak when you are angry, and you will make the best speech you will ever regret."

Boy, I think many of us have been there in one way or another, huh?

Please, do remember to call 824-3220 or e-mail han@megalink.net with all your news, information, and celebrations.

I wish everyone a very Happy Thanksgiving

I am out in the sunshine.

For a lawn that needs mowing, windows that need cleaning, and gutters that need fixing, because it means I have a home.

For all the complaining I hear about the government, because it means we have freedom of speech.

For the parking spot I find at the far end of the parking lot, because it means I am capable of walking and I have been blessed with transportation.

For my huge heating bill, because it means I am warm.

For the lady behind me in church who sings off key, because it means I can hear.

For the pile of laundry and ironing, because it means I have clothes to wear.

For weariness and aching muscles at the end of the day, because it means I have been capable of working hard.

For the alarm that goes off in the early morning hours, because it means I am alive.

And finally, for too many e-mails, because it means I have friends who are thinking of me.

Live well, laugh often, and love with all of your heart!

Gilead

By Lin Chapman

I hope everyone has a lovely Thanksgiving. Let me know if you want something put into the column next week.

My brother, Steve McLain, was in town Saturday evening to attend the special meeting, since he is one of the Selectmen for Gilead.

Hugh and I went to Gorham, N.H., last Saturday and spent the day with the grandchildren, William, Annie and Sidney. Around lunch time, we decided to head for Gilead. On the way, we had to stop for some lunch and to check out a couple of craft fairs. There was one at the Legion that Mary Tyler was set up at and another at the Ed Fenn School where Sidney goes to school. I picked up my Grange cookbooks from Mary and the kids had fun getting their faces painted and shopping at some of the tables.

Gerard Dupont had a visit from his daughter, Lise McLain, this past weekend. Lise reports that he is doing well at Ledgeview.

Aline Dupont celebrated her dad's (Gerard Dupont) birthday Nov. 12 at her home with the family. He spent the day with them. Everyone gave him lots of love and gifts. He loved it.

Someone has bought the former Freedom Square Apartment building on Route 2. It appears that there may be tenants there before long.

Upton

By Laurie Brown

What are trunnels? Did you know without asking an "old timer" or looking it up that they're literally "tree nails"? They were wooden pegs used to hold beams and such together in houses or barns -- even in ships -- and were supposed to last for about three hundred years.

Upton's annual Christmas program will be on Dec. 4 at the school house. As of today, we do not have a Santa Claus. Please call me at 533-2111 or e-mail me at lauriebrown400@gmail.com if you would like to fulfill the position. We have the suit, beard, and the Santa's bag, we just need a "body" to put in the suit, a lap for kids to sit on, and an ear to hear the whispered gift list. He'll pass out gifts, pose for pictures, and give out an occasional, hearty "Ho-HoHo." I'm pretty sure he'll get lots of homemade cookies as well as a huge "Thanks."

Selectmen have been updating the town's 911 program, which has been quite involved. Apparently some of the numbers that had been previously designated to homes had been assigned haphazardly and needed to be changed in order to comply with the "rules," which would facilitate locating the properties by emergency vehicles. A few residents (including us) will be asked to change their mailing address, which makes no sense to me -- no matter how many times Bob explains it. There's a lot involved in changing a mailing address! On most any form one fills out, there's a place to fill in a mailing address and a separate one to fill in the physical address. I haven't filled out any forms recently, so maybe that's changed, too.

This morning I watched a bunny, as white as the driven snow, run up the driveway, under my Jeep, and scurry off into the woods. That's a pretty good sign that winter is here, I guess.

Happy Thanksgiving! Hope you have lots to eat and lots of friends and family to share your day. Selah

Hanover

By Clem Worcester

Hanover Select Persons met Nov. 16 for their regular monthly meeting. Attending the meeting was Peggy Susbury, librarian for Gardner Roberts Memorial Library who thanked them for the $1,000 donation to the library as approved by the voters at the annual Town Meeting. Bob Susbury also attended the meeting and discussed several topics with the Board. The tax collector reported that most tax bills had been sent out except for a few with addressing problems. Bob Fortin from the Solid Waste and Recycle Committee reported on recent activities and he spoke of investigations into possibly using single-stream recycling.

The date for the annual tree lighting will be Saturday, Dec. 4 at the Town Office starting probably around 6 p.m. Following will be a social gathering with desserts, hot chocolate and, for those who dare, singing. All from the area are invited to attend.

Another windy weekend night shut off the electricity to the Route 2 area west of Hanover Village last Saturday.

Jim and Kent Ray returned safely to Texas -- Jim to Austin and Kent to Houston. In December Jim will undergo several days of testing and observation in an Austin Hospital.

No doubt some noticed that the Welcome to Hanover sign at the western end of Hanover is looking somewhat tattered. The Select Board hired Mark Beaudoin from Brushmarx Custom Lettering to restore and redesign the sign to adequately welcome passing visitors.

The Hanover Town Office will be closed Thursday and Friday this week in observance of Thanksgiving. Happy Thanksgiving everyone!

AWARD WINNER

Kathy Jo Farren and "Fenway" recently competed at an Agility trial sponsored by the Granite State Sheltie Club in Amherst, N.H. Fenway took first place in Open Jumps with Weaves and third in Open Standard. He also took first in Open Standard and received the Open Standard Title, as well as receiving a ribbon for being the highest-scoring Sheltie in that event. There are three levels in Agility, Novice, Open and Excellent. In order to receive the title, the dog must qualify three times. In a trial there are two events, Jumps with Weaves, which is a course set up with jumps, a set of weave poles and sometimes a tunnel, and Standard, which includes jumps, weave poles, an a-frame, a dogwalk, a seesaw, a pausetable and tunnels. The dog must earn a score of at least 85 to qualify. Fenway is 5 years old, and comes from Illusion Farms in Fryeburg, owned by Dan and Kathleen Hathaway. He is shown here with his 1st place ribbon and the high scoring Sheltie ribbon.

feated Leavitt on Saturday and earned the State Class B title.

Happy birthday to Kaylin Milligan on Friday, Nov. 26.

Cheerful get well thoughts go out to Linda Jodrey; hope that your feeling better!

Sympathy is extended to the friends and family of Lance Hilton, who passed away last Sunday. He was the son of the late Lindon and Edna (Roberts) Hilton. For the past several years he lived in Andover with his brother, Russell "Dusty" Hilton and his wife Ruth. Graveside services were held on Saturday at the Woodlawn Cemetery, with the Rev. Jane Rich officiating.

Sympathy also to the friends of former Andover resident Donald Lyon, who died last week in Portland. While living in Andover he was quite well known for his love of cats.

Don't forget the upcoming Craft Fair at the First Congregational Church, Saturday, Dec. 4, from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. They still have tables to rent for crafters. They will be serving muffins or homemade biscuits, coleslaw, American chop suey and baked beans throughout the day. Call Linda Couture at 364-7968 for more information, or to rent a table.

This Friday is the big shopping day for many -- you won't see me out there!

The end of hunting season is also drawing closer ...

Happy Thanksgiving!

Then Muffin can have something to get excited about while sitting in her bow window.

West Paris

All day Sunday the thermometer did not get above freezing. Winter will soon be following. The grass is still green. A good friend raked my front lawn and trimmed the brush and hauled it all away, so I look well tended. It is difficult for me to rake and shovel. I contracted for a snow shoveler and also for Frank to plow, as he has for the past 25 years.

After three weeks the Birthday lilies are beginning to shed their petals. They have lasted for a long time.

At the West Paris Universalist Church the Rev. Richard Beal's sermon topic is "A Pleasure of Customs," for it is the first Sunday of Advent. Jim Burke is the organist. All are welcome to the coffee hour following.

Beverly and Vince Stevens entertained at an early Thanksgiving dinner on Sunday. Those attending were Bruce Thayer, Muriel Bunker and son Chris, Roger and Beverly Thayer, and Ann and Fred Goulding.

I have not seen any birds so must get seed to attract them.

Hope you have a Happy Turkey Day. I hope to have made it to Turkey Tuesday this year. I may not because David has to give a friend a ride to the doc and I cannot do night driving -- at least not safely. I will try to get a friend to go with. It is such a fun event and raises much-needed food and money for the needy. We shall see.

Dave willing, I hope to be back to work next week. We shall see. I am ready and rather bored staying home. So look for me on a Wednesday. Or Saturday, depending on which day fits in. I cannot work Sunday because I am dependent on Dave for a ride -- again it is dark by the time we get home.

Nov. 25 there will be turkey and ham at St. Catherine's at 32 Paris Street in Norway. Dinner begins at noon. Any Oxford Hills resident is invited. Make reservations by calling St. Catherine's at 743-2606.

Sunday, the 28th, Bethel Rotary Club's All You Can Eat Buffet Breakfast will be held at Ordway Dining Hall at Gould Academy. Tickets are $7 in advance from any Bethel member or at Rostay Inn in Bethel, Mt. Mann Jewellers, and River View Resort. The money will benefit Bethel Community's Youth Scholarship. It is a great breakfast. Come and enjoy it.

Monday, the 29th, the Knit and What group will meet at Waterford Library from 2 to 4 p.m. Come and start that Christmas present.

Dec. 4, Fare Share will hold a buffet with casseroles, etc., and a silent auction at The Commons. Call 743-9044 or Cyndy Tinsley at 890-4968 for exact information and to find out where you can donate items.

Dec. 6, Socrates Cafe meets at the Waterford Library. The topic is "Whatever happened to the role of compromise in politics." Moderator is Jim Kearney. FMI call 889-6957.

Waterford meeting of ACA will not be held on the 25th but will be back at Waterford Library on Dec. 2. FMI please call 739-9115.

line He has provided. Keep giving Him the glory!

Since the building inspector has not yet provided the town of Rumford his report on the Kreske building our church is moving into, Pastor Thacker has decided, that with the holidays and all, we will postpone our moving until the first of December. By then the report should be turned in and the necessary permits ready. It was getting a little nerve-wracking to not know from one service to the next where we would be. So, we will hold our services at the Conference Center at the Linnell Motel until then. The Thanksgiving Giveaway will be dispersed from the building on the Andover Road and all activities, unless otherwise announced, will remain there also.

There are still a few duck stragglers around. I saw a mallard drake with several females down near the shore just below the bank in back of my house. So far the ice that has covered the pond has not lasted long but I suspect it won't be long before it is here to stay for the winter. I hate to see the birds who wait too long and their feet get frozen in. It is a long, slow death for them.

I was sorry to hear that Richard Grover has lost Snuffy. It seemed as if he was one of the immortals and would go on forever. Dogs, especially good ones, do not live long enough. I remember reading a poem once that wondered why we give our hearts to a dog to tear. For those who love animals and especially dogs somehow we seem to have no choice. It is very hard to lose them but somehow it seems even harder not to have them to enjoy for as long as we can. Anyhow, we send our sympathies to Snuffy's family. It sounds as if he was one of the good ones.

I am really enjoying my new furnace this fall. It seems good not to have that faint oil smell because it was always a worry that some carbon monoxide gas was escaping into the house along with the odor.

I now have a detector also that doesn't keep going off every five minutes. I never was sure whether it was gas or a faulty detector that was causing it to beep. This is a different brand and so far has only made a noise when the battery was low. I hope it never does make any noise when I am not here because it about drives Chloe up a wall the sound is so shrill.

I hope everyone has a great Thanksgiving holiday. Be careful on the roads, too, as it gets dark so early, the turkeys and deer seem to like to walk in the middle, and the roads are often wet.

So, until next time, enjoy your days, keep the faith, and God bless.

Have a nice Thanksgiving.

Historical Society

At the November meeting of the Historical Society members discussed Thanksgiving memories and enjoyed pizza. In December the meeting will be the first Saturday of the month at 6 p.m. at Market Square Health Care Center where Mary Billings resides.

The society museum is a historical and cultural center for the area. The collections of local artifacts and art and antiques are truly fine.

Do attend the meetings. They have a potluck supper and informative programs. The museum is building for the future though it deals with the past. Exhibits are saved today to be enjoyed by posterity. That way when you give something to the society you can be sure it will benefit future generations.

Remember at the Christmas party they exchange gifts. A woman for a woman and a man for a man. That's so everyone gets a gift.

Curator Larry Billings has a white church that lights up that he got at a yard sale. It looks like the Bryant Pond Baptist Church. A family dressed in winter clothing are in front.

Bethel Senior Citizens meet

The Bethel Senior Citizens Club met Nov. 10 at the Legion Hall in Locke Mills for their meeting and luncheon with 36 members present.

President Nancy Mercer led the salute to the flag and conducted the meeting. Reports were given by Musa Brown and Arlene Lowell. The 50/50 raffle was won by Joyce Bennett and the door prize by Bette Gilbert.

SWOAM ON TOUR—Members of the Western Maine chapter of the Small Woodlot Owners Association of Maine toured Ernest and Alberta Angevine's land Saturday to learn about the erosion-control improvements they have made with funding assistance from the Natural Resources Conservation Service. Above, Peter Marcinuk of the NRCS shows a fabric and gravel combination used to stabilize a logging trail. Right, the Angevine's granddaughter, Sarah DeCato, pushes her daughter, Isla, up the slope of a trail.

Mahoosuc Land Trust challenge

This year there is a special incentive for Mahoosuc Land Trust supporters. In February Larry Stifler and Mary McFadden issued a Challenge match to the Land Trust for 2010. The Challenge will match, dollar for dollar, all new and increased donations to the land trust up to a total of $50,000. As the Land Trust heads into its 2010 Annual Appeal season, it is asking all of its donors to stretch in their giving this year to help earn the full $50,000 in the Challenge match. If you have thought about being a donor and just haven't gotten around to it, this is the year your donation will be doubled through the match.

In 1978 Larry and Mary went snowshoeing on Peabody Mountain in Albany and fell in love with the area. They bought the mountain site and constructed a post and beam home a few years later. Their property, called "Northern Retreat," is managed for sustainable forestry, water quality, wildlife habitat, recreation and traditional uses.

The Stiflers are long-time members of the Mahoosuc Land Trust and active in land conservation in Massachusetts, where they established the Wareham Land Trust in 2001. The historic Bumpus Mine is located on their land and they share their interest in Maine minerals with the community. Last year they published a book, "Maine Feldspar, Families and Feuds, Oxford County Mining History" written by Vandall King about the area's rich mineral history. "We hope our incentive will help bring new support as well as new members to sustain the important work of the Mahoosuc Land Trust," said Larry about the challenge grant. Adds Mary, "The Mahoosuc Land Trust deserves as much support from the community as it can get to save the critical lands that define the very character of this beautiful area."

In June the Mahoosuc Land Trust finalized its largest easement to date, conserving 4,600 acres of working forest around the Concord River in Milton, Rumford and Woodstock.

The Land Trust seeks "to protect and conserve land and traditional land uses" for the benefit of the public. The Stifler/McFadden Challenge is an important source of funds to continue the Land Trust work in the Mahoosucs.

The Challenge match is simple. If you are already a donor, any increased amount in your 2010 gift will be matched. If you are a new donor, your entire gift will be matched.

If you are able to stretch your giving to the Summit Society level of $1,000 or more, your gift will be matched at 2 for 1.

Given that it is the holiday season, consider giving a Mahoosuc Land Trust membership as a gift for friends and family that appreciate the beauty of the Mahoosuc Region.

The Mahoosuc Land Trust is a community land trust encouraging public interest in conservation in central Oxford County, Maine, and eastern Coos County, N.H., supporting a balance of growth and conservation and emphasizing sustainable and traditional land uses.

West Paris Library news

Fourth annual "Let Your Light Shine" at the West Paris Public Library. It's time again to help the "Little Castle" glow with shimmering white lights in honor of a loved one. The Friends of the Library are sponsoring the bedecking of the library with sparkling white lights to honor and remember those who have a special place in our hearts and lives. Suggested donation is $5 from adults and $1 from children under 12 for each person to be honored. The names of these individuals will be permanently inscribed in the library's "Let Your Light Shine Memory Book."

The first illumination of the lights will occur on Dec. 10 at 5:30 p.m. Area residents and visitors alike are invited to join in the fun on this date. There will be refreshments and a special activity for children (which adults can also join in and enjoy).

Proceeds from this "light"-hearted event will be used to purchase items needed for the new addition to the library.

Donations may be dropped off at the library, which is located at 226 Main Street. They may also be mailed to: Friends of the Library, West Paris Public Library, P.O. Box 307,

West Paris, ME 04289. According to Librarian Patty Makley, "Each donation should include the name, address and phone number of the donor(s). In addition, we need the name of the person(s) to be honored or remembered and whether they are being honored (living) or remembered (deceased). We also need to know their relationship to the donor(s)."

The library is open Monday and Friday from 1:30 to 6 p.m., Wednesday from 1:30 to 7 p.m., and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. For more information, call 674-2004.

ANDOVER ELEMENTARY

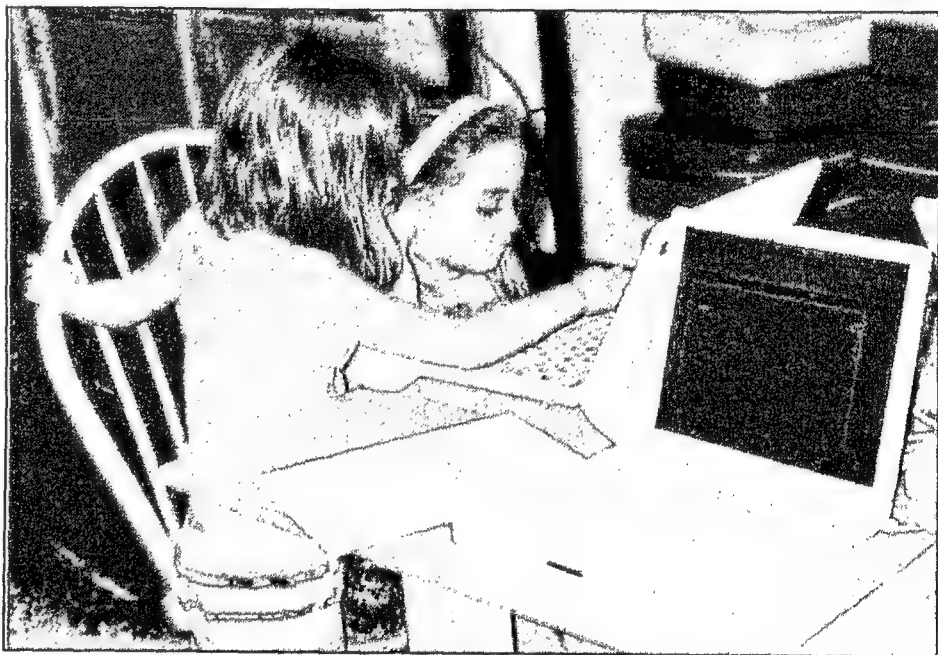

ROTARY READER

Dave Murphy, Superintendent of SAD 44, reads to the kindergarten and first-grade students at Andover Elementary. Murphy has often expressed his desire to spend more time in the classroom. When the Rotary Club of Bethel decided it wanted to buy picture and coloring books for all first graders in SAD 44 as a literacy project, Murphy, also a Rotarian, saw an opportunity to read to the children in the classroom. "Andy and Elmer's Apple Dumpling Adventure" is a story of a young entrepreneur named Andy who, with the help of a mysterious voice providing guidance and support, learns the value of truthfulness, fairness, goodwill and partnerships that benefit everyone involved. Elmer owns the apple tree from which Andy picks the apple to make apple dumplings. Another friend helps transport Andy's wonderful apple dumplings to market. All Rotarians strive to follow the four-way test in their daily lives and businesses: Is it the truth? Is it fair to all concerned? Will it build goodwill and better friendships? Will it be beneficial to all concerned? The Rotary Club of Bethel furnished the picture books for all first-grade classes and elementary school libraries in SAD 44. Each first-grade student received their own coloring book that tells the story of Andy and Elmer and provides many fun activities for them to do at home. Here, Murphy reads to the kindergarten and first-grade students at Andover Elementary. Pictured with him are, from left: Marc Chaisson, Emma Clukey, Brenden Hodgkins hiding behind Codi Duclos, Mackenzie Zitoli, Maecy Dixon and April Thurston. Murphy also planned to read to all the first-grade students at Woodstock and Crescent Park schools.

AES K/1 students were recently asked to join a social studies and writing project called The Great Mail Race, which started in a classroom in Denver, Colo. The kids collaborated on letters, posters, and information gathering about Maine to share.

Kindergarten and first-grade students at AES are learning how to show appreciation for kind deeds while learning about letter writing. Here Codi Duclos and Emma Clukey write to thank grandparents for visiting.

TELSTAR MIDDLE SCHOOL

Telstar Middle School students in 6th, 7th grade and 8th grade math skills classes prepared no-bake pies and other desserts to serve at a "Connect at TMS" Family Night last week. Students researched recipes, went to the grocery to buy their ingredients and will now do various math activities and lessons based on their desserts and purchases. Here, sixth-grader Sean Driscoll shops at the Bethel Foodliner.

Andover Elementary School had a large turnout for Grandparents' Day last month. Here, first grader Maecy Dixon shares a favorite page from her journal with her grandpa, Ken.

WOODSTOCK ELEMENTARY

Ms. Wilson's Grade Four class at Woodstock Elementary School has been studying Rocks and Minerals as part of a Changing Earth unit. Part of this study included a trip to the Bumpus Mine in Albany, where students learned the history of the mine, they explored the mine, and they were able to search for mineral specimens of Mica, Feldspar, and Beryl. Featured in the photos are: Joe Scotte, Toby Walker, and Elizabeth McLeod.

CARING HANDS AT WES To celebrate World Food Day Oct. 16 the Student Council at WES started their annual Thanksgiving drive and called it "Caring Hands at WES." For each item students brought in they received a paper hand for them to write their names and grades. Our challenge to the staff and students was to see if we could collect enough items (hands) to go all the way around the gym. The winning class would receive gift certificates to our next book fair. We were very pleased to have collected over 700 items and also some cash donations. The Student Council will be putting together some baskets for our local families and the remainder will be donated to our local food bank. Congratulations to 2nd and 4th grade for a neck and neck finish.

CRESCENT PARK ELEMENTARY

The first grade classes have been studying animal life cycles this fall. Recently the students were able to see monarch caterpillars change into butterflies (right). The butterflies were then released, so they could fly on to Mexico. As a culminating activity, the classes from CPS and WES also took a trip to Sunday River Alpacas (left), where the students were able to learn about alpacas, trout, and the process of making yarn from fiber.

The students in Mrs. Wight's third grade class at CPS enjoyed carving pumpkins prior to Halloween. As part of our math class, we weighed the pumpkins before and after carving; as a follow-up we figured out how much the insides were. Some of the math was a challenge, but the students did a GREAT job changing pounds to ounces to get the difference.

Ben Kamilewicz, a teacher at Gould Academy, spoke to all of the third graders at CPS about being a Veteran and Veterans Day. The students were a GREAT audience and asked many good questions. Ben served in Iraq five years ago.

Christmas at the Mason House

Nineteenth century decorations of boughs, berries and fruit plus candlelight and special holiday treats will be among the attractions for the annual Christmas at the Mason House to be held on Saturday, Dec. 4, beginning at 3:30 p.m. and continuing until 5 p.m. Live seasonal harp music will wait throughout the house completing a 19th century experience highlighted by warm mull cider served from the hearth of the winter kitchen. Everyone is welcome and there is no admission charge, but donations are gratefully received. (Please note that this event has been rescheduled from Dec. 9) Following this event, Historical Society volunteers will be honored at festivities beginning at 5 p.m. in the Mason House Exhibit Hall. In addition, the 2010 Marjorie MacArthur Noll Volunteer Service Award will be presented to a longtime volunteer for outstanding service to the society.

Western Mountains Senior College classes

The arts are alive and well at the Western Mountains Senior College, where members may take advantage of a wide variety of cultural options. Recently, the Senior College Players, in their fifth year of existence, entertained full crowds in the McLaughlin Auditorium at Gould Academy in Bethel. During two Saturday/Sunday performances, the 18-member troupe presented a total of 13 short plays. From the beginning the program has operated on the premise that players need not memorize scripts, but Director Lynn Arizzi explains that Players have improved and matured to the point that many now work from memory. During the fall term budding artists enjoyed Suzanne Taylor's Painting and Drawing course, designed to offer a range of media choices to all talent levels of participants. Taylor has created a studio atmosphere, where students critique each other's work in a safe environment, which they describe as both stimulating and fun. Also this fall, students in Dr. Marvin Ouwinga's Renaissance Art course learned about the religious and mythological context, as well as the political and economic milieu, in which the Renaissance unfolded, thereby gaining a greater understanding of the painters, sculptors, and architects of the era. Students enjoyed Ouwinga's "exceptional knowledge and resources," and one participant noted his ability to "open my eyes to a treasure of art I had no experience with."

Attending the All-Star Campbell Conference banquet in Portland on Nov. 21 with their families to accept their Class B West Campbell Conference All Star Player awards were Mountain Valley High School players Ryan Glover, Cameron Kaubris, Christian Durland, Izaak Mills of Andover, and Taylor Bradley. Players are selected for this honor in recognition of the achievements on the field throughout the season and are voted as such by coaches conference-wide. Durland also took home top honors as Class B Player of the Year and the team earned the Class B State Championship Gold Ball vs. Leavitt High School Nov. 20, 20 - 0. All of these players were defensive starters who allowed only 30 points scored against them in 12 games played this season. Team supporters expressed thanks to Telstar High School football players, coach, and fans for supporting Mt. Valley football players at their home games this season.

By popular demand, both of these courses will be extended into the winter term. In the spring term, cultural opportunities will include a music/history class co-taught by Dr. Ouwinga and Dan Johnson, our local music expert. Rev. Johnson will also offer a pre-opera lecture and attendance at a Metropolitan Opera production in high definition simulcast. For more information, contact Chairperson Bonnie Pooley: pooleyb@gouldacademy.org or (207) 881-7944.

Obituaries

GERALD O. JOHNSON

Gerald O. Johnson, 65, of Bryant Pond passed away on Wednesday, Nov. 17, 2010 at his home.

He was born in Norway on Sept. 18, 1945, the son of Oscar and Julia Briggs Johnson. He grew up in Bryant Pond and graduated from Woodstock High School in 1963. He married Virginia I. Tibbetts on May 1, 1965. He worked at Parker Allen, Haver Dover, Stowell's mill until it closed in 1988, and retired from Saunders Brothers early, due to his health problems. He was a skilled lead set-up man and even dabbled in being a foreman. Being a set-up man for the Madison machine took a lot of intelligence and patience to build the machine head.

July 7, 1966 the happy couple was blessed with their first child, Eric Edgar Johnson, Oct. 21, 1969 their second child was born, Michele L. Johnson-Wakefield. The Johnsons started their journey in Bethel. In 1979 the couple decided they had enough of the long harsh winters and opted to move to Bryant Pond so they wouldn't have to snow blow a long dirt road every time it stormed.

While the children were young, Jerry loved to coach his son's baseball team, The Bethel Red Sox. Pretty good for a devoted Yankees fan. The leaving of Joe Torrey made him lose some of his faith in the New York Yankees, but he still supported them and loved to get a good ole fashion Red Sox/Yankee debate going.

Jerry loved the outdoors and everything about it, hunting, fishing, baseball, birds, four-wheeling and snowmobiling. Some of Jerry's fondest memories were those spent with his best friends Tom Berryment and Harold Walker. He also was always up to a competitive game of cards. He would play cards on Friday night with the family and would get so riled he would end up in the ER with chest pains, and then he enjoyed Sunday morning cribbage games with his brother Charles.

He is survived by his wife and best friend of 50 years, Virginia Tibbetts Johnson; a son, Eric Johnson and fiancée Wednesday Westleigh of South Paris; a daughter, Michele Johnson-Wakefield and husband Ray of Bryant Pond; grandchildren, Jacob and Jennifer Wakefield, Shania, Shaq and Colby; a brother, Charles L. Johnson and wife Wanda of Bryant Pond; sisters, Gloria Mae Johnson-Robinson and husband Royce of Groton, Conn., and Marcia J. Morgan-Monk and husband Percy of Mason Township; half-brothers, James Johnson of Greenwood and Jeffrey Johnson of Florida; and several nieces and nephews.

He was predeceased by two sisters, Shirley Ann Morgan-Seames and Carla Jane Morgan-Martin; his stepfather, Edgar Morgan; his mother, Julia Briggs Morgan; his father, Oscar Gerald Johnson; stepmother, Evelyn "Diddy" Johnson; and one of his best friends, Tom Berryment of Bryant Pond.

Online condolences may be shared with his family at www.andrewsgreenleaf.com. Memorial services will be held on Wednesday, Dec. 1, at 1 p.m. at the Locke Mills Union Church.

Resolved that we, the members of Pleasant Valley Grange #136, extend our sincerest sympathy to the bereaved family.
